SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT

EquityZen Growth Technology Fund II LLC - Series *
*(series number to be assigned at closing, see signature page)
c/o EquityZen Advisors LLC
30 Broad Street, Suite 1200
New York, NY 10004

This Subscription Agreement (this “Agreement”) sets forth the terms on which you (the “Subscriber”) desire to subscribe for a membership interest (the “Interest”) in a series of EquityZen Growth Technology Fund II LLC (the “Company”), to be assigned by EquityZen Advisors LLC (the “Manager”) upon its acceptance of your subscription for the Interest herein (the “Series”). The Company is a series limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Delaware. The amount at which you desire to subscribe to the Interest is set forth on your signature page to this Agreement. The Interest is being offered through EquityZen Securities LLC (“EquityZen Securities”), a registered broker-dealer and member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority.

You understand that the Interest is not being registered under the U.S. Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”), or any securities law of any state of the United States or of any other jurisdiction. You also understand that the Interest is being made available only to investors who qualify as “accredited investors” (as defined in Rule 501(a) of Regulation D under the Securities Act) and, if applicable to the Series, a “qualified client” (as defined in Rule 205-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the “Investment Advisers Act”)) or a “qualified purchaser” (as defined in Section 2(a)(51) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the “Company Act”). By executing this Agreement, you are making a binding offer to purchase the Interest on the terms and conditions specified in this Agreement, in the Company’s Limited Liability Company Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A and the Series Schedule for the Series (as each may be amended and restated from time to time, collectively, the “Operating Agreement”). Capitalized terms used but not defined in this Agreement have the meanings ascribed to them in the Operating Agreement (including any Series Schedule).

In consideration of the mutual covenants set forth in this Agreement, you and the Company hereby agree as follows:

1. Acceptance of Subscription. The Company will have the unconditional right to reject this subscription offer, in whole or in part, for any reason or no reason, without liability to the Company or the Series. This Agreement is deemed accepted by the Company only once it is signed by a duly authorized officer of the Manager and delivered to you. If the Manager rejects all of your subscription offer, (i) this Agreement shall be null and void and of no further force or effect and (ii) you shall not be admitted as a Member of the Series.

2. Subscription Amount. Subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement and the Operating Agreement, you hereby subscribe for and agree to purchase the Interest in the subscription amount set forth on your signature page (the “Subscription Amount”), in exchange for a purchase price equal to such Subscription Amount. The date you submit your executed copy of this Agreement and pre-fund your Subscription Amount (in addition to the EquityZen Sales Fee) shall be referred to hereunder as the “Subscription Date”. At the Closing (as defined below) the amount of your Subscription Amount will represent your Capital Contribution and will be credited to your Series Capital Account. The Underlying Agreement the Series may enter into for the purpose of acquiring the Underlying Securities via an interest in an Investee Vehicle may include various fees paid upfront to one or more third parties, including brokerage commissions to third-party broker-dealers, and upfront management fees of the third party managers of the Investee Vehicle (the “Investee Vehicle Manager”, and such upfront fees collectively, the “Third Party Upfront Management Fees”). The Third-Party Upfront Management Fees are detailed on your signature page and will be included in the calculation of your Subscription Amount. Further, the EquityZen Sales Fee must be paid at the Closing in addition to the Subscription Amount set forth on your signature page. In addition to the Third-Party Upfront Management Fees, the Series may incur additional fees paid to the Investee Vehicle Manager out of the assets of the Investee Vehicle over time on a recurring basis or prior to a distribution, including recurring management fees of the Investee Vehicle Manager, reimbursement of any operating expenses of the Investee Vehicle or the Investee Vehicle Manager, and/or performance-based fees (or “carried interest”) allocated to the Investee Vehicle Manager (such fees collectively, “Other Fees”). The Other Fees are detailed on your signature page. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) the Third Party Upfront Management Fees and Other Fees will be charged by the Investee Vehicle Manager out of the assets of the Investee Vehicle, not by the Manager of the Series, and (ii) the Manager of the Series does not charge any management fees or any performance-based fees. Depending on the quantity and price of the Underlying Securities acquired by the Series at the Closing in addition to any Third Party Upfront Management Fees and Other Fees, you acknowledge and agree that over time the dollar value of your Capital Contribution and final distribution may be lower than the dollar value of your Subscription Amount, and your Series Interest may be represented by a whole or a fractional quantity.

3. Deposit of Subscription Amount. As of the Subscription Date through the date of the Closing, the Manager shall cause your Subscription Amount (in addition to the EquityZen Sales Fee) to be deposited and held in escrow by the escrow agent, currently SouthState Bank, N.A. (the “Escrow Agent”), pursuant to an agreement by and among the Escrow Agent, EquityZen Securities LLC (“EquityZen Securities”), and the Series (the “Escrow Agreement”). Pending a Closing (as defined below), Subscription Amounts (in addition to the EquityZen Sales Fee) will be maintained by the Escrow Agent in an omnibus account (the “Omnibus Account”). The Escrow Agent may credit the Omnibus Account with interest or other amounts based on the aggregate balance of the Omnibus Account (“Account Credits”). Any cash representing Account Credits will be paid by the Escrow Agent to the Company for the benefit of the Manager. Notwithstanding Section 6.1(a) of the Operating Agreement, the Manager shall be entitled to utilize the cash proceeds of such Account Credits for such purposes as it, in its sole discretion shall determine, including without limitation to pay any fees, expenses, costs or other amounts due and owing to any Person in connection with the operation of the Company, the Series, any other series of the Company or the Manager’s general operations. No Series Member shall participate in any Account Credits for any purpose. For the avoidance of doubt, even if a Closing does not occur due to the failure to achieve the Closing Conditions, any Account Credits generated by the Company based (in part) on the Subscription Amounts (in addition to the EquityZen Sales Fee) will be retained by the Company for the benefit of the Manager.

4. Place and Date of Closing. The closing of the sale of Interests by the Series (the “Closing”) will occur as of the date upon which this Agreement has been countersigned by the Manager and certain conditions precedent included in the Underlying Agreement with respect to the purchase of the Underlying Securities by the Series, if applicable, as more particularly set forth in the Escrow Agreement (the “Closing Conditions”), have been satisfied. On each Closing, the full amount of Subscription Amounts accepted by the Manager (in respect of the Series) will be disbursed to the Company (in respect of the Series). In the event a Closing does not occur due to a failure to achieve the Closing Conditions, the Escrow Agent will refund the Subscription Amounts (in addition to the EquityZen Sales Fee) submitted by each Person to such Person without deduction or payment of interest in accordance with the Escrow Agreement. At the Closing, upon evidence of your payment of both the Subscription Amount and the EquityZen Sales Fee to one or more accounts to be designated by the Company and upon release of the Subscription Amount by the Escrow Agent to the Series, the Company shall be deemed to have issued to you, and you shall be deemed to have subscribed for, the Interest, effective as of the date of Closing. Subject to the terms and conditions set forth in the Series Schedule, the Company may accept additional subscriptions for, and continue to have closings with respect to, subscriptions for Interests in the Series from new or existing investors from time to time and at any time, with the specific terms attributable to such Interests to be determined in the Company’s sole discretion. For the avoidance of doubt, following the Closing, the Manager reserves the right in its sole discretion (and in accordance with the Series Schedule) to (i) negotiate and finalize the Underlying Agreement on behalf of the Series, and (ii) disburse funds (including your Subscription Amount and the EquityZen Sales Fee) to one or more third parties pursuant to the Underlying Agreement for the purpose of acquiring the Underlying Securities on behalf of the Series. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Manager or Series does not enter into the Underlying Agreement by the date that is ninety (90) days after the date of a Closing (the “Agreement Anniversary Date”), the Company shall return the Subscriber’s Subscription Amount (in addition to the EquityZen Sales Fee), without interest, within thirty (30) days after the Agreement Anniversary Date, provided, however, that the Manager reserves the right to extend the Agreement Anniversary Date in its sole discretion.

5. Representations and Warranties of the Company. The Company represents and warrants to you that as of the date of this Agreement:

You have adequate means of providing for your current needs and possible contingencies, and are able to bear the high degree of economic risk of this investment, including, without limitation, the complete loss of your entire investment in the Series, the lack of a public market, and the limited transferability of the Interest, which may make the liquidation of this investment impossible for the indefinite future.

(h) You have such knowledge and experience in financial and business matters as to be capable of evaluating the merits and risks of an investment in the Series and making an informed investment decision with respect thereto. You have consulted with your legal, financial and tax advisors with respect to the proposed investment in the Series or have concluded that such consultation is not required.

(k) You have been supplied with all additional information concerning the Company and the Series that you have requested, have had a reasonable opportunity to ask questions of and receive answers from the Company, the Manager, or their respective representatives concerning this investment, and that all such questions have been answered to your full satisfaction.

In making your decision to subscribe for the Interest, you have relied solely upon your review of this Agreement, its exhibits and schedules, the Offering Document, if any, and your independent judgment without the assistance of the Company, the Manager, EquityZen Securities LLC, any placement agent or their respective officers, directors, employees, attorneys, or agents.

(m) You have not engaged any broker, dealer, finder, commission agent or other similar person in connection with the offer, offer for sale, or sale of the Interest and you are under no obligation to pay any broker’s fee or commission in connection with your investment in the Series (other than with respect to the EquityZen Sales Fee payable to EquityZen Securities as described herein) for which the Company, the Manager, EquityZen Securities LLC or any of their respective affiliates will have any obligation or liability.

(o) You understand that the Interest has not been and will not be registered under the Securities Act, or any state or international securities laws, in partial reliance upon exemptions from registration for certain private offerings. You acknowledge that the Interest has not been approved, disapproved, or recommended by the Securities and Exchange Commission, any state securities commission or any other regulatory authority, nor have any of the foregoing authorities passed upon or endorsed the merits of this offering or the accuracy or adequacy of the Offering Document. You understand and agree that the Interest, or any interest therein, may not be sold, pledged, hypothecated, or otherwise transferred except in accordance with the Operating Agreement. You also understand and agree that the Interest, or any interest therein, may not be sold, pledged, hypothecated or otherwise transferred unless registered under the Securities Act and applicable state securities laws or an exemption from registration is available and unless the Company receives an opinion of counsel, satisfactory to it, that an exemption from registration is available. Further, you understand that only the Company can take action so as to register the Interest, the Company is under no obligation to do so, nor does it propose to do so and there can be no assurances that any market for Interests will develop.

(p) You understand that this Agreement does not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy interests of the Series in any jurisdiction in which it is unlawful to make such an offer or solicitation. You acknowledge that no general solicitation or general advertising (including communications published in any newspaper, magazine, e-mail or by electronic means on the Internet or other broadcast) regarding the Company, the Interests and the offering of the Interests has been received by you and that no public solicitation or advertisement with respect to the offering of the Interest has been made to you. You acknowledge that the private placements of interests in certain international jurisdictions may be restricted by law or regulation as further set forth in Exhibit E. It is your responsibility to observe all applicable laws and regulations of any relevant jurisdictions and to inform yourself as to the legal requirements and tax consequences within the country of your citizenship, residence, domicile and place of business with respect to the acquisition, holding or disposal of the Interest and any securities or other property received in connection with such Interest, and any exchange restrictions that may be relevant thereto.

(q) You (i) acknowledge that this Agreement, and all other information concerning the Company and the Series delivered to the Subscriber in connection with the purchase and sale of the Interest (the “Proprietary Information”) constitutes proprietary confidential information of the Company; (ii) covenant to the Company that you shall not use the Proprietary Information except for the sole and isolated purpose of making an investment decision related to the purchase of the Interest; and (iii) represent, warrant, and covenant that you have not distributed or disseminated, nor will you at any time distribute or disseminate the Proprietary Information to anyone other than your personal legal or financial advisers, if any, and that the use of the Proprietary Information by any personal legal or financial adviser has been, and will at all times be, limited to the sole and isolated purpose of evaluating your proposed purchase of the Interest.

EXHIBIT A

OPERATING AGREEMENT

EXHIBIT B

RISK FACTORS

An investment in the Series will involve risks not associated with other investment alternatives. Prospective investors should carefully consider, among other factors, the risks described below. Such risk factors are not meant to be an exhaustive listing of all potential risks associated with an investment in the Series. There can be no assurance that the Series' investment objectives will be achieved, or that there will be any return of capital. An investment in the Series is a potentially suitable investment only for sophisticated investors for whom an investment therein does not represent a complete investment program and who, in consultation with their own legal, investment and tax advisors, fully understand and are capable of assuming the risks of such an investment, including the potential risk of losing all of their invested capital.

Capitalized terms used and not otherwise defined in this Exhibit B shall have the meanings ascribed to such terms in the Operating Agreement.

General. The Series will be subject to numerous risks generally related to investing in securities and other investments, and the additional risks associated with investing in non-marketable securities and non-public companies. The securities of Underlying Issuers and other interests in Investee Vehicles acquired by the Series will have restrictions on resale and, even in the absence of such restrictions, may not be marketable. It is not anticipated that any Investee Vehicle Securities acquired by the Series will be marketable. The ability of the Series to profit from its investments will be highly dependent upon the ability of its investments to appreciate in value and for there to be a liquid market for such investments and in the case of investments in Investee Vehicles, the ability of the Manager to select appropriate third party managers of such Investee Vehicles. Numerous factors may impede or prevent an investment from reaching this point, including an Underlying Issuer having inadequate capital, unfavorable competitive developments, adverse legislation at the national, state, or local level, inadequate management or loss of key persons, technology obsolescence, and lack of market acceptance. Investments may face significant capital shortfalls for a wide variety of reasons. Resource development may prove more expensive, or take more time, than anticipated, and the growth in revenues may be slower than expected. Any of such occurrences may result in the failure of an investment and a loss with respect to the Series' investments. Investments in Investee Vehicles will be subject to additional risks that the third party manager of the Investee Vehicle can successfully administer its investments.

No Operating History. Each of the Company and the Series has no previous operating history and will be entirely dependent upon the Manager. The past investment performance or any prior investments managed by the Manager or its affiliates is not a reliable indicator of the future results of the Company or the Series. No person should be willing to make an investment in the Series unless such person is willing to fully rely upon the Manager's ability to effect investments on behalf of the Series and to dispose of those investments successfully.

General Investment Risks Associated with the Series' Investments. The Series will generally invest directly or indirectly in shares of common or preferred stock of private Underlying Issuers or in interests into one or more Investee Vehicles that are managed by one or more third party managers that hold, or with the proceeds of Series' investment will acquire, such Underlying Securities. Each of such investment opportunities will entail certain risks that may adversely affect the performance of the Series' investments and, in turn, an investment in the Series. These risks may involve, without limitation, general economic risks and volatility associated with such investments, the illiquidity of such investments and a potential lack of recourse with respect to adverse actions by, or associated with, the Underlying Issuers or third party managers of Investee Vehicles. The value of the Series' investments is derived, in large part, from the value of the Underlying Securities. Equity securities of private issuers can be highly volatile and expose investors to a high risk of loss. Moreover, there is no exchange market on which to close out an open investment. Consequently, it may be impossible to liquidate an existing investment, to accurately assess the value of investment or to accurately assess the exposure to risk associated with a particular investment. No Person should be willing to make an investment in the Series unless such Person is capable of losing such person's entire investment in the Series.

Preferred Stockholder Liquidation Preference. The Series may invest directly or indirectly in common or preferred stock of Underlying Issuers. An Underlying Issuer may grant liquidation preferences to certain of its preferred stockholders. A liquidation preference provides that upon an initial public offering, liquidation, acquisition, or sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Underlying Issuer (a "Liquidity Event"), senior preferred stockholders will have the option to receive the amount of their liquidation preference first in full, before any proceeds are delivered to junior preferred or common stockholders. Where all classes of preferred stock elect to receive their liquidation preference in full, they may receive a disproportionate share of proceeds in a Liquidity Event, and common stockholders will generally share ratably in any remaining sales proceeds. Likewise, one or more classes of preferred stock may receive a disproportionate share of proceeds relative to junior classes of preferred stock in a Liquidity Event. Because the Series may directly or indirectly invest in common stock (or a class of junior preferred stock), the Series' overall returns may be negatively impacted by liquidation preferences. Specifically, if an Underlying Issuer undertakes a Liquidity Event at a valuation that is less than the implied valuation of the Underlying Securities at which the Series invested, the Series' overall returns may be negatively impacted by the liquidation preferences.

Participating Preferred Stock. Certain preferred securities issued by an Underlying Issuer may hold participation rights ("Participating Preferred"), which entitles holders of those securities to participate pro rata with common stockholders in addition to receiving the holders' liquidation preference amount in a Liquidity Event. Because Participating Preferred may result in less residual value accruing to holders of other securities of the Underlying Issuer, which may include the Series, the Series' overall returns may be negatively impacted by any Participating Preferred.

IPO Ratchet. The securities issued by an Underlying Issuer may contain an anti-dilution provision under which, if an Underlying Issuer goes public below a predetermined price, the holders of such securities will receive a downward conversion price adjustment, resulting in the issuance of additional securities to those holders (an "IPO Ratchet"). Because the Series may directly or indirectly invest in Underlying Securities that may be diluted by an IPO Ratchet, the overall returns of the Series may be negatively impacted by the presence of any IPO Ratchet.

Cumulative Dividends. One or more securities issued by an Underlying Issuer may contain cumulative dividend rights, whereby holders of those securities will accumulate unpaid dividends at a predetermined rate, which accrue to the liquidation preference of those securities over time ("Cumulative Dividends"). Because Cumulative Dividends may increase the liquidation preference of securities more senior to those held directly or indirectly by the Series, they may negatively impact the overall returns of the Series over time.

Lack of Transparency in Underlying Issuer Operations. As Underlying Issuers are not required to make periodic public filings, certain operational information about the Underlying Issuers is not available to the Series prior to investment, including historical financial results and projected financial results, customer and sales data, strategic plans, and management discussion of operations. As a result, the Series' investments are made on the basis of publicly available information, which may be incomplete, inaccurate, or not confirmed by the Underlying Issuer.

Underlying Issuers' Operations and Financial Results Subject to Various Risks. Revenues and operating results of Underlying Issuers could vary significantly from quarter to quarter and year to year because of a variety of factors, many of which are outside of the control of the Underlying Issuers and the Company. As a result, operational results of an Underlying Issuer known prior to an investment by the Series may vary significantly following an investment. This may result in a decline in the value of an investment in the Series, including a complete loss of such investment. Factors that may contribute to the variability of an Underlying Issuer's operational and financial results include:

- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to maintain an adequate rate of growth;
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to attract new customers;
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to retain existing customers;
- the effects of increased competition in the Underlying Issuer's business and the ability of the Underlying Issuer to compete with competitors that may have longer operating histories and greater financial and operational resources;
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to keep pace with changes in technology and its competitors;
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to protect its and its customers' data, technology or other intellectual property from third-party infringement or from misappropriation in the U.S. and abroad;
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to defend itself against potential and actual intellectual property litigation alleging such Underlying Issuer of infringement of a third-party's intellectual property;
- declines or disruptions in the industries and markets in which an Underlying Issuer operates;
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to successfully enter new markets and manage expansion, including expansion in international markets;
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to provide a high-quality customer experience through its products and services;
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to successfully manage any acquisitions of businesses, solutions, or technologies;
- the success of an Underlying Issuer's marketing efforts; and
- the ability of an Underlying Issuer to comply with applicable federal and state laws, rules, or regulations as well as any rules of applicable networks and associations.

No Assurance of Investment Return. The task of identifying investment opportunities on behalf of the Series and managing such investments is difficult. Many organizations operated by persons of competence and integrity have been unable to make similar investments successfully.

There is no assurance that the Series' investment objectives will be attained, or that the value of the investments will not decline, or that there will be any return of capital. In the case of investments in Investee Vehicles, these risks are compounded by the risk that the third party manager of the Investee Vehicle may not effectively manage the Investee Vehicle in ways that protect the Company's investment.

Diversification. The Series' investments are expected to be concentrated in a relatively small number of Underlying Securities and will not be widely diversified. Any investment, directly or indirectly, in the Series should not be considered a complete investment program. Such concentration of risk may expose the Series to losses disproportionate to those incurred by any particular market in general. In the event of a detrimental effect with respect to one or more of the Underlying Issuers and/or Investee Vehicles comprising the Underlying Securities, the Series' overall returns may be impacted much more negatively than they would be if its investments were spread more broadly.

Market Factors. General fluctuations in the economy may affect the value of investments held by the Series. In such event, the ability of the Series to achieve a favorable return on its investments may be severely impeded.

Long-Term Investment. Given the investment objectives of the Series, its investments, by their nature, may be long-term investments. An investment in the Series is therefore only appropriate for investors with a long-term investment horizon, no currently anticipated requirement for liquidity in the investment and a capacity to absorb a loss of some or all of their investment.

No Control of Underlying Issuers or Investee Vehicles. The Investee Vehicles will be managed by one or more third parties. Accordingly, the Company will not have any control over the management of any Investee Vehicles and the success of its investments will depend on the ability and success of the management of the Underlying Issuers and Investee Vehicles, in addition to industry-specific and general economic and market factors. There may be little or no market for the securities of Underlying Issuers and even if such a market does develop, with respect to investments in Investee Vehicles, the Series will be dependent upon management of the Investee Vehicle to successfully distribute the Underlying Securities or the proceeds thereof to the Series. Accordingly, valuations may fluctuate considerably and the per share valuations that are negotiated by the Manager may bear limited or no relationship to future valuations of securities of the Underlying Issuers in any market that may develop for such securities, whether private or public.

Risks Related to Investments in Investee Vehicles. The Company may invest in the potential of Underlying Issuers directly through the purchase of the Underlying Issuer's Underlying Securities or indirectly through investments in one or more Investee Vehicles that hold such Underlying Securities or will acquire them with the proceeds of the Series' investment. Investment in such a structure may subject investors to additional risks which would not be incurred if the Series were investing directly in the Underlying Issuer. Such risks may include but are not limited to (i) multiple levels of expense and third party management fees (including recurring or upfront management fees and performance-based fees) that may have the effect of reducing the return on investment by the Series (and indirectly by the Members of the Series); and (ii) reliance on third-party management to successfully protect the Series' investment. In addition, such Investee Vehicles may issue capital calls, and failure to meet the capital calls can result in consequences including, but not limited to, a total loss of the Series investment in such Investee Vehicle.

Allocations to Series; Terms of Series May Vary. Each Series will have its own terms and conditions and the rights and obligations of Members of one Series may differ from those of other Series. The Manager has broad discretion in determining such rights and obligations and it has no obligation to make terms and conditions applicable to one Series available to any other Series. Accordingly, results to the Members of the various Series may vary considerably, even if the performance of investments in the Underlying Issuers and/or Investee Vehicles by such Series are similar.

Company Expenses. The Company has incurred, and will incur, various fees and expenses that will reduce the amount of funds that would otherwise be available for investment in Underlying Issuers and Investee Vehicles and which must be paid or reserved prior to any distributions to Members. Allocation of fees and expenses by the Manager among Series may have a disparate effect on a Series and allocation among individual Members may cause such Members to experience disparate outcomes. Company expenses will also include litigation-related and indemnification-related obligations and expenses; all legal, audit and tax preparation costs and expenses; consulting, research and accounting costs and expenses (including expenses associated with the preparation of Company financial statements, tax returns and Schedule K-1s); other costs and expenses associated with the sourcing, acquiring, holding and disposing of its investments or proposed investments in respect of the Series, including, without limitation, all costs and expenses associated with negotiating and investment-related agreements; costs and expenses incurred in collection of monies owed to the Company and/or the Series; any entity-level taxes, fees or other governmental charges levied against the Company and/or the Series; organizational costs and expenses; and costs and expenses substantially comparable to the foregoing. Payment of or reserves for such expenses and fees will reduce the amount of funds available to the Company for investment in Underlying issuers and Investee Vehicles, thereby impacting the potential yield on an investment in the Series. There can be no assurance that the Company will be able to realize gains sufficient to offset these charges.

Manager's Right to Dissolve the Company. The Operating Agreement provides that the Manager may at any time dissolve the Company or any Series in its sole discretion. If the Company's or a Series' assets become depleted, the Manager may elect to dissolve the Company or such Series and to distribute its remaining assets to the Members at a time when dissolution may be disadvantageous to the Members from a financial and/or tax perspective.

Other Activities of the Company, the Series and the Manager. The success of the Series will be largely dependent upon the efforts of the Manager. Although the Series will be one series of the Company and one of the business activities of the Manager, the Manager will devote such time and efforts to the business of the Company and the Series as it believes are reasonably required to carry out the business of the Company and the Series. The Manager, its employees, and other affiliates may engage in other business activities, and the business of the Series may not be such Persons' primary business activity.

Conflicts of Interest. EquityZen Securities, an affiliate of the Manager, will receive compensation, in the form of the EquityZen Sales Fee, for each Member's subscription to an interest in the Company. Additionally, as detailed in the Subscription Agreement, the Escrow Agent may credit the Omnibus Account with Account Credits, which will be paid by the Escrow Agent to the Company for the benefit of the Manager. As a result, there may be a conflict of interest between the Manager and prospective Members. If a registered representative of EquityZen Securities helps guide you through the investment process, sometimes that professional will earn a commission. Such registered representatives thus have an incentive to encourage you to transact on our platform, and typically earn higher commissions as your transaction size increases. Certain registered representatives who work with referral partners can be eligible to receive additional bonuses. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Manager believes that the terms of such arrangements are fair to the Series and its Members. No comment by any persons associated with the Manager or EquityZen Securities should be considered a recommendation of a security. All investment decisions should be made independently or discussed with your legal, tax and investment advisors prior to the purchase of Interests. The Manager serves as manager to both the Series, other investment vehicles and to discretionary managed funds ("Discretionary Funds"), which make investments in portfolios of private securities offerings, and which may include the Series. As a result, there may be a conflict of interest between the Manager's role for the Discretionary Funds, investors in other investment vehicles and prospective Members. The Manager follows a written allocation policy to ensure the fair and equitable allocation of investment opportunities, which the Manager believes reduces the likelihood of such and/or mitigates the effects of potential conflicts of interest. Additional information concerning these allocation policies can be found at <https://equityzen.com/allocation-policy/>. Full-time employees and other affiliates of EquityZen Inc., the parent of the Manager, are permitted to invest in the Series (each an "Affiliated Investment"), which may present a conflict of interest between the Manager and the prospective Members. Each Affiliated Investment is subject to a lower minimum investment than available to other potential Members of the Series; each Affiliated Investment is accepted in the same sequence and priority as other potential Members' investments and pays the same fees. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Manager believes that the opportunities offered to prospective Members are fair to the Series and its Members.

No Right to Control Company or Series Operations. The Members will have no opportunity to control the day-to-day operations of the Series or the Company, including investment and disposition decisions of the Series and will only have voting or consent rights in very limited circumstances. The Members must rely entirely on the Manager to conduct and manage the affairs of the Series and the Company.

Illiquidity of the Interests; Limited Transferability of the Interests. The Interests are highly illiquid, have no public market, and generally are not transferable, except with the consent of the Manager (which consent may be withheld by the Manager in its sole discretion) and compliance with applicable securities laws. Voluntary withdrawals of the interests are generally not permitted. No investor should purchase Interests if such investor cannot afford to hold the Interests indefinitely. Furthermore, if an investor who purchases Interests should have a change in his, her or its liquidity requirements and be forced to seek to sell the Interests, it will be very difficult for such investor to sell the Interests promptly, if at all, and the likely sale price one could expect to receive would be at a substantial discount to the purchase price such Member paid for such Interests.

The sale of the specified minimum, while necessary to the business operations of the Company, is not designed as a protection to investors, nor to indicate that their investment decision is shared by other unaffiliated investors. Because there may be substantial purchases by affiliates or persons associated with, via employment or otherwise, the Company, or other persons who will receive fees or other compensation or gain dependent upon the success of the offering, no individual investor should place any reliance on the sale of the specified minimum as an indication of the merits of this offering. Each investor must make its own investment decision as to the merits of this offering and the suitability of such investment for such investor.

Possible Adverse Tax Consequences. It is the intention of the Manager that the Company and the Series will be classified as a partnership for federal income tax purposes, and not as an association taxable as a corporation. No representation or warranty of any kind is made with respect to the tax consequences of an investment in the Series, or the allocation of taxable income or loss to Members, as provided in the Operating Agreement. Potential investors are advised to consult their own tax advisors with respect to the tax consequences to them of an investment in the Series.

Cross-Series Liability. The Manager expects that pursuant to Section 18-215 of the Delaware Act, the debts, liabilities, obligations, and expenses of each Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series only, and not against the Company generally or against any other Series in the Company, whether currently existing or established subsequently. However, notwithstanding that series limited liability companies have been authorized by the Delaware Act, the robustness of their asset and liability segregation has not been extensively tested by the courts. There can be no guarantee that each Series will be treated as a separate and distinct legal entity for purposes of the Delaware Act, ERISA, bankruptcy laws, the Code or otherwise.

Indemnification of Certain Persons. The Operating Agreement contains broad indemnification and exculpation provisions that limit the right of a Member to maintain an action against the Series, the Manager, the Company, its agents and/or their respective affiliates to recover losses or costs incurred by the Series as a result of such Persons' actions or failures to act. Payments by the Series in respect of such indemnification provisions will reduce the assets available for distribution to Members.

Disposition of Investments. Part or all of one or more investments made by the Series may not be completely disposed of prior to the dissolution and liquidation of the Series, in the event of which the Company (with respect to the Series) may make in-kind liquidation distributions to the Members of securities in the Series' portfolio that have not been disposed of. Any such disposition may occur at a time, and have consequences, that are unfavorable to one or more Members.

Absence of Regulatory Oversight. The Company (with respect to the Series) is not registered as an investment company under the Company Act in reliance upon one or more exemptions available to privately offered investment companies and, accordingly, the provisions of the Company Act (which, among other things, require investment companies to have a majority of disinterested directors, provide limitations on leverage, limit transactions between investment companies and their affiliates and regulate the relationship between the adviser and the investment company) are not applicable to the Company. The Interests have not been registered under the Securities Act or the securities laws of any state in the U.S. or any other country, nor is it expected that they will be. The Company has no plans nor has assumed any obligations to register these Interests. The Manager is an exempt reporting adviser and is not registered as an investment adviser with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Investment Advisers Act and accordingly the protections afforded to investors by such Act are (with limited exceptions) not available to the Series or the Members. Such status does not imply that the Securities and Exchange Commission or any state securities authority has endorsed or approved the qualifications of the Manager or any of its respective affiliates or representatives to provide the advisory services described herein.

Future Regulatory and Legal Developments. This document cannot address or anticipate every possible current or future regulation or legal development (including change in law) that may affect the Series, the Manager, the Company, or their respective businesses and operations. Such regulations or legal development may have a significant impact on the Series and/or the Company, including but not limited to, restricting the types of investments the Series may make, or requiring the Company to disclose certain confidential information regarding its terms, investments, or the Members. The Manager, in its sole discretion, may cause the Series and/or the Company to be subject to certain regulations or legal requirements if it believes that an investment or business activity is in the Series' and/or the Company's interest, as the case may be, even if such regulations may have a detrimental effect on one or more Members. Prospective investors are encouraged to consult their own advisers regarding an investment in the Series.

Cybersecurity Risk. Malware, viruses, hacking, and phishing attacks have become more prevalent in recent years and may occur on EquityZen Inc.'s systems in the future. Although it is difficult to determine what, if any, harm may directly result from an attack, any failure to maintain the security of EquityZen Inc.'s systems may result in unauthorized requests to access bank and investment accounts, the disclosure of information that EquityZen Inc. and its affiliates are obligated to keep confidential, or other improper or illegal activities that could result in a financial loss to EquityZen Inc., its affiliates, the Series or investors in the Series.

Business Continuity and Disaster Recovery. The Manager, its affiliates and the Company's business operations may be vulnerable to disruption in the case of catastrophic events such as fires, natural disaster (e.g., tornadoes, floods, hurricanes and earthquakes), terrorist attacks or other circumstances resulting in property damage, network interruption and/or prolonged power outages. There can be no assurances that all contingencies can be planned for. These risks of loss can be substantial and could have a material adverse effect on the Company, the Series, and the Members' investments therein.

Systems and Operational Risks. The Company depends on the Manager to develop and implement appropriate systems for the Company's activities. The Company relies on financial, accounting and other data processing systems to execute, clear and settle transactions and to evaluate certain securities, to monitor its portfolio and capital, and to generate risk management and other reports that are critical to oversight of the Company's activities. In addition, the Company relies on information systems to store sensitive information about the Company, the Manager, their affiliates and the Member. Certain of the Company's and the Manager's activities will be dependent upon systems operated by third parties, including the administrator, market counterparties and other service providers, and the Manager may not be in a position to adequately verify the risks or reliability of such third-party systems. Failures in the systems employed by the Manager, the Administrator, counterparties, exchanges and similar clearance and settlement facilities and other parties could result in mistakes made in the confirmation or settlement of transactions, or in transactions not being properly booked, evaluated or accounted for. Disruptions in the Company's operations or breach of the Company's information systems may cause the Company to suffer, among other things, financial loss, the disruption of its business, liability to third parties, regulatory penalties or reputational damage. With respect to the Series' investments in Investee Vehicles, the Series will be subject to additional risks of this nature based on the manager of the Investee Vehicle's ability to choose appropriate vendors and maintain suitable safeguards. Any of the foregoing failures or disruptions could have a material adverse effect on the Company, the Series, and the Members' investments therein.

Possible Dilution of Company Assets. On occasion, an Underlying Issuer may need additional financing to support operations or growth. It is not certain that additional financing will be available to an Underlying Issuer on favorable terms or at all when required. If an Underlying Issuer raises additional funds through the issuance of equity, equity-linked, or debt securities, those securities may have rights, preferences, or privileges senior to the rights of the Underlying Securities held directly or indirectly by the Company and may dilute the Series' investment.

Operation and Investment of Parallel Series. One or more series of the Company may invest, or seek to invest, in the same Underlying Issuer or Investee Vehicle. It is expected that, in accepting investors into a series of the Company, the Manager may separate investors into separate series based on each investor's ability to meet the requirements of an "accredited investor", "qualified client" and/or "qualified purchaser". It is expected that multiple series will generally operate in parallel with each other and are expected to invest in the Underlying Issuer or Investee Vehicle on substantially the same terms and conditions, legal, tax regulatory, accounting, contractual, business and other similar considerations applicable to a particular Series. It is possible that an Underlying Issuer or Investee Vehicle may limit, restrict or eliminate the amount or type of investments that can be made by the Series or, in the event established by the Manager, its parallel series. Accordingly, the performance of the Series or, in the event established by the Manager, its parallel series, may differ materially from each other due to differences in the respective portfolio construction of its investments.

* * * * *

The foregoing risk factors do not purport to be a complete enumeration or explanation of the risks involved in an investment in the Series. Prospective investors should read this Agreement and the Operating Agreement in their entirety and consult with their own advisers prior to making any decision to invest in the Series.
